RUSSIAN ARMIES BEGIN DRIVE ON EASTERN FRONT, FIRST SINCE REVOLUTION

WACO CAMP TO BE FOUR TIMES SIZE OF OTHERS

EIGHT THOUSAND ACRES HERE AGAINST 1,500 AT FT. WORTH AND 2,000 AT HOUSTON.

THIS CITY WILL PREPARE FOR ANY ENLARGEMENT

SEVERE NORTHERN WINTER MAY TAX THIS CITY'S RESOURCES, IS REPORT.

Figures on file in the quartermaster's department at Washington indicate the government was ambitious plans for the development of the Waco camp site.

The government will have 8000 acres for its Waco camp as against 2000 at Houston and 1500 at Fort Worth. Thus it appears from an area standpoint that the Houston and Ft. Worth camps are practically restricted to the training of small bodies of troops over brief periods while the Waco camp, four and five times as large, is big enough to be developed into the largest concentration point in the south.

The military affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been persistently optimistic in its belief of what the army chiefs have planned for the Waco site. On the basis of all way round availibility, Waco is classed as one of the two best sites in the United States by the army inspection committees that have looked over the site.

Use Will Determine Best Sites.

It is admitted that the rapidity with which 16 cantonments and a score of camps were selected and the tremendous pressure brought to bear at Washington by candidate cities made a perfect selection of sites impossible. But as the army settles down to a serious building of training from one to three million men the best sites for such training will rapidly be discovered. If Waco has the first or second best site in the United States army chiefs will not be slow in taking advantage of the facts, especially after the first batch of men have been satisfactorily trained in Waco.

The best information from Washington indicates there will be a second draft called after the first five hundred thousand compulsory service men have been assimilated at the cantonments. These men largely will be called out as severe winter is gripping the north. There will be a demand for rapid fire training of large bodies of men at a time when they can best be trained under open weather conditions.

Waco Will be Ready.

Waco has provided a site extensive enough for a partically unlimited number of men. She will be prepared to take care of all regiments the government cares to send. She is planning to see to it that her sewage, water and transportation facilities would be built large enough to take the strain that might be put upon them by any reasonable enlargment of the camp.

The arrival of five army aviators on the Highland Place aviation site scheduled for Monday noon has revived speculation as to the possibility of an aviation division in connection with the army camp. The flyers under Capt. Bowen leave San Antonio at 9 a. m., arriving in Waco from three to four hours later.

Waco Logical Flying Point.

The least that is expected to come to Waco in an aviation way is a large receiving hangar and supply station. If the main flying base is placed at San Antonio the hundreds of machines there will be taken out on long flights. This makes it necessary for proper landing places and repair plants.

Waco is an ideal distance from San Antonio for intermediate flights. Actual war conditions demand that aviators stay in the air from 6 to 12 hours behind the enemy line and a 200 mile flight such as the San Antonio-Waco distance would be considered a moderate try-out.

WACO AMBULANCE CORPS BREAKS RECORDS FOR MEN RECRUITED IN DAY

Capt. Paul C. Murphey's ambulance company No. 1, Texas national guard, to be mustered into the federal service on August 5, has enlisted 142 men since recruiting began Friday morning. On Saturday the Waco office recruited seventy-one men, while ten were recruited by Lieutenant Lucy at Eddy, making a total of eighty-one in one day, which, so far as is known, breaks all recruiting records for this locality.

FULL QUOTA OF OFFICERS ARE SELECTED FOR BATTERY E.

BATTERY E OFFICERS.

Captain, E. J. Clark.
Lieutenant, John R. Donoghue.
Lieutenant, W. W. Naman.
Lieutenant, C. B. Collins.

In a telegram received Sunday, Capt. Clark was notified that John Donoghue and C. B. Collins had been appointed first and second lieutenants, respectively. The information came from Capt. Claud V. Birkhead of San Antonio and was made by General Hulen of the Texas national guard.

Lieut. John R. Donoghue has seen service in three different branches of the army, he is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Lieut. C. B. Collins is a veteran of the Boer war and bears nine wounds received from shrapnel. He spent seven years at Paris, France, and besides speaking the language fluently knows the country of France like the average citizen of Waco knows McLennan county.

Officers do not expect the men to be mustered into federal service before August 5, but expect the final medical examination to come not later than Thursday of this week. Permission has been granted the battery to continue recruiting throughout the week and any man joining the Texas national guard will not be bothered by the draft law.

ARMY CAMP LEASES ARE TO BE CLOSED

The committe which is to close up the leases for Colonel Barden of San Antonio on the army camp site will reach Waco this week, probably before Wednesday, though the exact date had not been designated last night.

In a telephone conversation with Colonel Barden, President J. M. Penland of the Chamber of Commerce was told that the committee was coming this week to close the leases and would get here as early in the week as business would permit.

This step is taken to mean activity at a very early date, in the way of preparing for placing the soldiers of the National Guard on the beautiful camp site north and northwest of the city.

OFF FOR PALACIOS AT 11 THIS MORNING

Leaving Waco at 11 o'clock this morning in two Pullman sleepers on the H. & T. C. railroad, a large delegation of B. Y. P. U. members and encampment of the organization at their friends will start for the state encampment of the organization at Palacious. The encampment will last from July 4 to July 15.

The preparations which have been made this year exceed the preparations of the past, and among the speakers will be Doctors Gambrell, Truett, Scarborough, Cross and others. Dr. Curtis Lee Laws of New York will be among those who will be present at the encampment, also. There are many forms of amusement at Palacios while the religious services and lectures are not going on.

DIRECTORS OF ROTARIANS TO PLAN YEAR'S WORK

After the regular luncheon of the Rotarians at the Hotel Raleigh at 12:15 o'clock today the board of directors will be called together and will counsel as to the plans for future work during the year by the Rotarians. This will be an important meeting a sit will initiate activities of this live bunch.

At the luncheon today a talk will be made by C. K. Chambers on "Pictures That Talk."

POSTOFFICE IS TO BE CLOSED ON JULY 4

None of the windows at the postoffice will be open on July 4, as that is a general holiday.

The only deliveries made will be those of special delivery letters and perishable parcels post shipments. Mail will be put up in the boxes but no windows opened or deliveries made.

PORTER COUNSEL IN CROSS FIRE FIGHTING HARD

MAKES REPEATED ATTEMPT TO TEAR DOWN TESTIMONY OF WITNESSES.

DEFENSE MAY GET INNING BY WEDNESDAY THIS WEEK

FINDING OF BODY AND IDENTIFICATION HAS BEEN FULLY ESTABLISHED.

Staff Special.

Belton, July 1.—From sensation to sensation, with every witness' testimony bringing feeling here to a higher pitch, the trial of Willie Porter for the murder of Emma Staley continued late Saturday afternoon with the state hoping to finish its side of the case by Wednesday of next week.

The testimony of the witnesses called by the state so far has been concerned with the finding of the body. Several have been called who had either assisted in taking the body from the river or in dragging the river for the bag of clothing and suitcase.

Chum's Testimony Important.

The most important testimony so far has been that of Miss Julia Miller and Dee Robinson. Miss Miller had been a chum of the dead girl for many years and was her confidant on all occasions.

Miss Miller testified that Miss Staley had never told her of any improper relations with Porter until the Saturday before her disappearance on Monday. She said that Miss Staley had told her that she was going away for about a month and that Porter was going to see her "through it."

The judge announced that the docket for the next case would be set for Wednesday and that if the trial was not ended by that time, he would make a further announcement.

Young Men Called.

After Miss Miller, the state called several young men who had been intimate with the prisoner to testify to his intimacy with Miss Staley. The state was evidently trying to prove that the intimacy with the dead girl continued after Porter's marriage in November. The defense attacked this, trying to tear down all evidence of Porter's having been responsible for her condition, while not denying the intimacy. The mother's testimony in regard to the number of months that the girl had been in a delicate condition is expected to be of material help in establishing the responsibility.

The big crowd is anxiously awaiting Porter's defense of himself. It has not yet been let out whether he will take the stand, but the crowd expects it.

The trial is the one topic of conversation in Bell county. A peculiar circumstance is that nearly every one seems to be related to the prisoner or to the Staleys. Miss Julia Miller for the prosecution is a cousin of the defendant's wife, and a cousin of the defendant is seen constantly with the dead girl's mother. Feeling between the two families runs high.

John Graves on Stand.

Q. Your name is John Graves?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is your home?

A. Belton.

Q. Did you know the defendant, Willie Porter?

A. Practically all of my life.

Q. Did you have a conversation with the defendant in regard to Emma Staley?

A. Yes. He told me that he had got this girl into trouble and asked my advice about getting out of the trouble.

Q. What did you tell him?

A. I told him that if I were him I would either marry the girl or leave the country. He said that he didn't want to marry the girl.

Q. Did he show you any letters from the dead girl?

A. Yes, he showed me a letter from Miss Staley.

Q. As near as you can recall, what was the subject matter of this letter?

A. Well, she talked about her condition, and said that she was about all right, she thought. She asked him to come out on Wednesday. The second day after that we talked again and he said he had found things better than he expected.

Q. With reference to the Bell county fair, which was about the first of October, can you approximate the time of these conversations?

A. I can't be sure, but it was before.

Q. Did you see any letters from her any other time?

A. I think I saw two letters, but I am not sure.

Q. Did he tell you anything of the

MISSOURI MALADY IS SPREADING RAPIDLY, NOW IN ARKANSAS

By Associated Press.

Kennett, Mo., July 1.—Entercolitis, the disease which has been responsible for the deaths of 118 persons in southeastern Missouri within the last six weeks, now has crossed into Arkansas, six deaths having been reported at Luxora, Mississippi county, in two days. Towns in Missouri affected by the disease are Kennett, Senath, Townly, Campbell, Malden, Hayti, Oran and Sikeston.

While it is estimated that 50 per cent of the persons in Dunklin county are suffering, many have been confined in bed only a few days.

POSSIBILITY OF TROUBLE IN COAL PRICE FIXING

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 1.—Official Washington awakened today to the possibilities of trouble in Secretary Baker's repudiation of the coal price fixing arrangements secured by Secretary Lane and coal production committee of the council of national defense by which operators east of the Mississippi river agreed to cut their mine prices today from $1 to $3 a ton. So far there is no indication that the issue has become acute or that there will be a split in the cabinet the president has kept around him with but few changes for the past few years.

BRUTAL MURDER OF TWO AT NASHVILLE SUNDAY

By Associated Press.

Nashville, Tenn., July 1.—This morning about 1:30 o'clock Walter K. Hamilton, a painter, and his wife were cut to pieces at their home in the northeastern section of the city. The neighbors who were awakened by screams found the man dead and his wife lying across his body breathing her last.

The murder was a mystery to the police until about 7 o'clock this morning when Albert J. Hunter, a cabinet maker, according to the police, confessed to the killing.

MAY REFUSE DALLAS CHANCE TO TRY JONES

By Associated Press.

El Paso, July 1.—Sheriff Seth Orndorff announced tonight he would resist the efforts of Dallas county to have Felix R. Jones taken to Dallas to answer the charge of murder in connection with the killing of Florence Brown.

Jones is held in jail here on indictments charging him with murder and conspiracy to commit murder in connection with the killing of Thomas Lyons, New Mexico millionaire.

TROLLEY CAR IN 20 FOOT PLUNGE KILLS 9 PEOPLE

LOADED WITH PASSENGERS CAR LEAVES TRACK ON EMBANKMENT.

WASHOUT CAUSED BY HEAVY RAINS IS CAUSE

SOLDIERS HELP TO RESCUE VICTIMS FROM WRECKAGE IN WATER.

By Associated Press.

Niagara Falls, July 1.—A belt line car on the Great Gorge line, loaded with passengers, left the rails and plunged down a twenty-foot embankment and turned over in ten feet of water on the edge of the whirlpool rapids this afternoon.

Nine persons are known to be dead, two known to have been on the car have not been seen since the accident and probably are dead, and an indefinite number, estimated at from two to ten, are reported missing, and more than a score are in hospitals suffering from injuries.

A washout due to recent heavy rains was the cause of the disaster, which occurred just below the Cantilever bridge and sixty feet below the point where the smooth water of the upper reaches of the Niagara break into the turbulent whirlpool rapids.

Car Almost Around.

The car had all but completed the circuit of the gorge, having crossed from the Canadian side of the river on the trolley bridge at Lewiston. There were more than fifty passengers on board, it was believed.

The car was one of the open style, the seats extending from side to side with steps on both sides, the full length. The seats were occupied, some passengers were standing between them and there were others on the rear platform.

The car was running at a speed of about twenty miles an hour when it struck the weak spots in the roadbed. Less than half a minute elapsed from the time the motorman felt the first jarring away until the car was bottom side up on the edge of the rushing rapids.

As it slipped down the twenty-foot incline from the tracks to the edge of the river, screaming men and women fought to escape, some of them freed themselves, but were unable to obtain a footing on the steep bank.

There was a mad scramble in the shallow water between the wrecked car and the river bank. From the river side the bodies of at least two of the passengers were seen to be caught in the swifter waters and were carried down to the whirlpool.

Soldiers Aid in Work.

Members of a national guard company on guard at the Cantilever bridge saw the accident and were the first to reach the scene. The soldiers slid down the bank into the river and worked in the water up to their waists getting injured passengers free from the wreckage and passing them up the bank where an emergency car had been placed to carry them to the Niagara Falls hospital.

The supports of the roof on the forward part of the car had been crushed by the impact on the rocks in the river bottom, throwing the seats together. This pinioned many of the passengers below the surface of the water and it was in this section of the car that most of the fatalities occurred.

Emma Staley's Father Says Daughter's

Young Bride Loyal to Husband

Death Certainly Will Be Avenged

By Anne Austin.

BELTON, July 1.—"We want to see justice done and if it is not done we have something that will bring justice. Human endurance has its limit and we are going to wait quietly through this trial and see if we get it. If we don't—"

In just these words did Emma Staley's father describe to me how he bore the burden of his daughter's shame and death.

The father and mother of the girl are of the highest class of tenant farmers—good, kind, peaceable people who deeply regret the publicity that this trial makes inevitable.

The father looks like a Bible patriarch of old—long-bearded, stern eyed, yet kindly. To me he was chivalrous, anxious to do anything possible to add to my comfort or to help in getting the real facts of the case.

PARENTAL AFFECTION SHOWN WHEN HE KNEW TRUTH.

When asked if he knew of his daughter's condition previous to her leaving, he said:

"No, she would only consent to going to the maternity home provided I did not know about her condition. Her mother told me all about it, or as much as she could drag from the girl herself, but I went to bed that night just as if I had not heard a word of it and I heard them leave the porch. Emma walked with her mother and sister who followed her out, but I pretended to be asleep."

When asked if he were not sorry of the loss of a chance to tell her good-bye, he said:

"No, because she was happier believing that I knew nothing."

To a question as to the dead girl's disposition, he said:

"Emma was always a timid sort of a girl. She never had much to say unless she knew the person real well. She did not run on much with foolishness like most girls, but would sit still and listen. She didn't have much company, because she didn't act fresh like so many girls. She had one or two real sweethearts in her life, but none that she seemed to care for like she did Willie Porter. My wife and I didn't want her to run around with him, but she just seemed to be crazy about him."

MOTHER'S HEART BROKEN AND GRIEF UNRESTRAINED.

The mother was quietly sad, talking freely of the daughter whom she had

REVIEW OF FOOD PROGRAM SHOWS REVENUE ISSUE

PROHIBITION IS STILL MAJOR MEASURE THAT CONFRONTS CONGRESS.

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 1.—A formidable mid-summer legislative program with food, prohibition and revenue the major measures still confront congress in its war session which begun three months ago tomorrow.

With business congested in the senate and the house marking time in recess, senate leaders hoped tonight to make rapid progress on the food control bill with its provision prohibition of manufacturing distilled spirits and send it to conference by the end of the week.

Launching of the war revenue bill re-written from the house draft and reduced from $1,800,000,000 to $1,652,170,000, by the senate finance committee also is pledged this week. Several weeks of revenue debate probably will follow disposal of the food and liquor measure.

Members of the senate agricultural committee and Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator were in conference today at the capitol discussing amendment and measures to expedite the food control legislation.

Except for a sharp fight expected late this week, the prohibition issue seems settled. Administration leaders are positive the senate will adopt Senator Chamberlain's substitute for the house "bone dry" sections. The administration compromise would stop manufacture of distilled beverages only, giving President Wilson no power over beer and wines.

To Make Strong Fight.

Many of the prohibition champions will make a fight for Senator Gore's amendment to empower the president to suspend manufacture of malt, fermented and vinous beverages and limit their alcoholic contents as well as absolutely prohibiting distillation for beverage purposes.

Among the changes in the food control features, of the bill proposed by Mr. Hoover, were application of the legislation to farmers' and gardeners' co-operative associations and modification of the committee amendment prohibiting government employes or agents from selling their own products to the government. The latter Mr. Hoover said should be so amended that while preventing a member of a voluntary advisory commission from selling his own products to the government it still should permit use of his services in advisory capacities in respect to products in which he has no interest.

TROOPS OF NEW REPUBLIC ATTACK GERMANS IN DRIVE ON 18 MILE FRONT SUNDAY

By Associated Press.

THE soldiers of new Russia have assumed the aggressive. For the first time since the revolution last March Russian troops have begun an attack on an extensive scale. Along a front of eighteen and one-half miles in the region of Brzezany, Galicia, Russian troops have stormed the German positions. Berlin says the Russians suffered heavy losses and were compelled to retire before the German fire. The attack was made between the upper Stripa and the Narayuvka river, a tributary of the Gnila Lipa in the section southeast of Lemberg, the Galician capital where the artillery firing has been heavy recently.

The Russians also made night attacks on both sides of Brzezany and near Zwyzynp and Berlin reports that assaults between the Zlota Lipa and the Narayuvka have brought on new battles between the opposing forces.

The artillery arm of the Russian forces have been active and from the Berlin report it is learned that an intense duel has been in progress in the region of Brzezany and as far northward as far as the middle Stokhod in Volhynia, a distance of about 175 miles.

Berlin declares that the Russian attacks, which it says were powerful, were brought about through the pressure of the leading entente power, the text of the official statement saying:

"The Russian government having been constrained to yield to the pressure of the leading entente powers, part of the army has been induced to attack."

The region of the Narayuvka and upper Stripa rivers has been the scene of much bitter fighting since General Brussiloff ended his victorious campaign last year and Brzezany is one of the keys to Lemberg.

Field Marshal Haig continues to tighten his grip on Lens. On the north bank of the Souchez, British troops have captured German positions on a front of half a mile southwest and west of Lens. The British army during June captured 6,686 German prisoners including 175 officers and 67 guns, including two heavy guns as well as much other war material.

Verdun Drive Continues.

The French and Germans continue to battle at various points on the front from Cerny to the Verdun region.

East of Cerny the French have repulsed German attacks in the region of Prunya, east of Rheims, a surprise attack was thrown back with heavy losses. On the left bank of the Meuse the fighting has brought no change in position.

Two German submarines were fired on by the gun crew of an American liner during a voyage from the United States to England and the sailors believe one periscope was shattered. A third submarine was sighted but the American gunners had no opportunity to fire as it immediately submerged.

THREE PATROLMEN SHOT IN EAST ST. LOUIS RIOT

By Associated Press.

East St. Louis, July 1.—Three patrolmen were shot, one of them seriously, when an automobile in which they were answering a riot call from Sixteenth street and Doismenue avenue was fired on by a crowd of negroes at that place. Major Kavanagh, commanding Illinois national guard troops here, immediately dispatched troops B and K to the scene of the shooting.

INSULTS NATIONAL GUARD AND IS SENT TO JAIL

By Associated Press.

Tooele, Utah, July 1.—Charged with "inciting violence against a uniform of the United States," C. R. Wheatly, said to be from Kansas City, Kan., was turned over to the sheriff last night by Capt. Claude V. Biggs of the Idaho national guard, against whom the alleged insulting remarks are said to have been made. Wheatly was arrested after the officer had paraded him through the streets of Tooele, tin cans tied to his back, placarded to announce his alleged offense.

INVESTIGATION TO COME ON MILWAUKEE DISASTER

By Associated Press.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 1.—Late estimates today placed the death list at fifteen in the accident in the Milwaukee river yesterday when a big steel water tank toppled over and crashed through the decks of the whaleback steamer Christopher Columbus. Thirteen were injured.

The local bureau of the federal steamboat inspection service this afternoon started an investigation.

time that he had been engaged in this intimacy with Miss Staley?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether about this time Mr. Porter made a trip to Sweetwater or to West Texas?

A. Yes, I know he went away somewhere.

Q. Was that about the time you had a conversation with him back of the Smoke House?

A. Quite a little later.

Q. Do you know for what reason he made that trip to Sweetwater?

A. No, sir.

Q. Prior to his marriage did he talk to you about his intended marriage?

Here the defense objected, but the court overruled the objection.

A. No.

Cross-examination.

Then counsel for the defense, Judge W. W. Hair, took the witness.

Hair: You do not recall the dates clearly? You do know that the conversation was before his marriage with Miss Lucille Miller. You also know that the letter you saw indicated that Miss Staley's condition was better, in fact, that she thought herself all right?

A. Yes, sir.

Finney Cowan for State.

Q. What is your name?

A. Finney Cowan.

Q. Were you a friend of the defendant?

A. Yes, sir. I knew him all my life.

Q. Mr. Cowan, did you ever have any conversation with the defendant with regard to his intimacy with Miss Staley?

A. Yes, sir. The first conversation was on the road to Temple. He told me that he was going out to see her that night. That was something over a year ago.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation about going out to West Texas at any time?

A. He told me that he was going out there on account of the trouble that he had got into with Miss Staley. He said that she was in a delicate condition and that he did not intend to marry her.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him after that?

A. Yes, some two or three weeks later.

Q. Do you know whether he left and went to Sweetwater?

A. I suppose he did. I did not see him for two or three weeks.

Q. Did you talk with him after he returned?

A. Yes. I told him that I did not expect to see him back. He said that he had heard from Staleys and that everything was all right and that he had come back home.

Q. Was that conversation prior to the Bell county fair?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination.

The defense then took the witness.

The cross-examination failed to change the testimony materially. Witness remained unable to fix dates clearly. Defense did not keep him long.

L. P. Archer for State.

Q. What is your name?

A. My name is L. P. Archer.

Q. Where do you live?

A. At Austin. I am assistant sergeant at arms at the state legislature.

Q. Did you know the defendant?

A. Yes, I knew him for eight years.

Q. Did you know Miss Staley?

A. Yes, when I saw her.

Q. Have you ever seen Miss Staley and the defendant together?

A. Yes, a number of times.

Q. Tell of the first time you saw them together?

A. Last summer, on the north side of town, on the road to Miller Springs. I saw them at Harrison's theatre together, too.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Willie Porter about going out to Staley's?

A. Yes, about eighteen months or two years ago. He asked me how I would like to go out into the country to see some girls. I told him that I would like it fine. He made a date with two girls, one of them Emma Staley. But the girl I was going to see got sick and I could not go. He asked me once or twice again to go, but somehow we never went. He asked me if I could get a car, because we could get the girls out better that way. He kept telling me that we would have to try it again some time, but I never went out.

Q. Since his marriage, have you had a conversation with him about going out to Staley's?

A. Yes, he said, 'Well, Archer, you are married and I am married, but my wife is out of town and your wife is not here, so let's go out to see some girls in the country and have a good time. He wanted to know if I could get off, and I said, 'No, I can't.'

Q. Did you see defendant and Emma Staley together after the latter's marriage?

A. Yes. I saw them on the road close to Judge Phillips' house. They were off the road and sitting in the buggy. Floyd Jackson and another girl were sitting on the culvert.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Porter about seeing them there?

A. Three or four days later. He did not tell who he was with. I said to him, "Willis, what was you doing out there in that buggy?" He said, "Nothing, just talking."

Q. When did you recognize Miss Staley, if you did recognize her?

A. I did not recognize her, but I knew that it was the Jackson boy with Miss Miller.

Q. Did you know of any improper relations between Miss Staley and Mr. Porter after Porter's second marriage?

A. No, I only saw them together once. I did not recognize the lady but he told me the lady was Emma Staley.

Archer could not remember at all the time he saw Miss Staley and Willie Porter together, but knew that it was after Porter's marrtage.

The defense then took the witness.

Q. What were you doing out that night that you saw Willie Porter with Miss Staley?

A. I got the car from mother that afternoon and went to Temple. I told her that I wanted to get it fixed.

Q. Who was with you?

A. Miss Leta Mae Davis and the young lady that worked for Mr. Enser. I had to carry my car home and then I borrowed Roberts' car and drove around until 11 o'clock.

Q. Tell about seeing Miss Staley and Mr. Porter.

A. Well, when I turned my car the lights flashed on the buggy that he was in. I saw that it was an open top buggy and recognized Willie Porter and recognized his voice.

Q. What kind of horse was he driving?

A. Sorrell, with two white hind feet.

Q. Where did you meet Emma Staley?

A. I met her at prayer meeting at Midway. I saw her often after that.

Q. What motive have you for telling this and trying to get Willie Porter into trouble?

A. I haven't any motive. I am just telling the truth.

Q. Didn't you tell me day before yesterday that you had not seen Willie Porter and Emma Staley together after this marriage?

A. Yes, sir But I was not on the stand then.

Q. Did you tell that to Judge White today?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why did you tell me a different story, when I asked you why on earth the state had you?

A. I didn't have to tell all I knew.

Q. You say that the horse you saw him driving was a sorrell mare with two white hind feet?

A. I don't know whether it was a mare or a horse, but it was sorrell with two white hind feet.

Q. Did you know that Willie Porter had sold his sorrell mare before his marriage?

The prisoner leaned forward with a glint of triumph on his otherwise impasive face. He smiled as he leaned over and whispered to Judge Phelps.

A. I don't know, but all I know is that it was a sorrell horse with two white hind feet.

Q. Did he have two sorrel horses with white hind feet?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Archer, is your memory good since you tried to commit suicide?

A. I didn't know that I had tried to commit suicide.

Q. Archer, answer me, is your memory good since you tried to commit suicide?

A. Yes, it is.

Judge White for the state then asked the witness if Porter had told him about his marriage to Miss Miller prior to seeing him with Emma Staley on the road.

Hair objected on the basis that the testimony was leading.

Floyd Jackson for State.

Jackson's testimony was important, since he was nearly always with Julia Miller when Willie Porter was with Emma Staley. He told of a conversation with Porter on Bankers' Corner about Robinson going out there to Staley's.

Jackson: Porter said that Robinson wanted to go out there, and said there would be a good time for him.

Q. Did he insinuate anything when he said there would be a good time for Robinson?

A. I don't know what he meant. Those were his words.

Q. When did you have the conversation with Porter on Bankers' Corner?

A. Some time since Christmas. Might have been in January.

Q. Did Porter state where he had been that day?

A. He said that he had been down to Staley's for a load of corn.

Q. Did he tell where he saw Miss Staley?

A. At the corn crib. The rest of the family were away from home.

Q. How did that conversation start? Did he approach you?

A. He just happened to meet me on the corner. I don't know how it all started. He just said that he had been down to Staley's for a load of corn.

Q. What was said about Dee Robinson in that conversation?

A. He asked me where Robinson was.

Q. What if anything was said about Dee Robinson getting the girl out for a meeting with Willie Porter?

A. He said Dee Robinson might get Emma out.

The defense then took the witness.

Q. You say that Willie Porter went for a load of corn at the Staley place and that he had a conversation with her while getting the corn down. Did he say anything about seeing Mr. Staley?

A. No, sir. No one was there but the girl.

Q. While you were going to see Miss Julia Miller, did you know of anything wrong between Miss Staley and Mr. Porter?

A. No.

Q. How did you two couples usually go?

A. We went usually in Mr. Porter's buggy. Sometimes we went to Sunday school and to picnics and to picture shows. It was an open-top buggy and Mr. Porter and the two girls rode in front and I rode behind standing up.

Q. Did you call Miss Staley through the Moffett line on March 10?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you talk to her on Sunday?

A. No.

Q. Did you call her on Monday?

A. No.

Q. You say there was nothing insinuating in Mr. Porter's remarks about there being a good time for Robinson?

A. Well, I guess he meant what he said, that he could have a good time with her?

Q. There are ways of having a good time with a girl without being intimate with her, aren't there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how often you and Mr. Porter went to see the young ladies after you got to going together?

A. Not more than once a week and sometimes not that often.

Q. Isn't it true that you and Mr. Porter did not go to see the girls together after the Bell county fair?

A. I do not recall going after the fair. I have no recollection of Mr. Porter's going with Miss Staley after his marriage.

Q. When you were out with Miss Staley did she seem to be in her usual spirits, or did she seem sad or downhearted?

A. About as usual.

District Attorney White: Did Mr. Porter ever tell you that he was intimate with this young lady or had been?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he tell you of his relations with her that day at the corn crib after his marriage?

A. He said—he said—I don't like to tell it before the ladies.

Judge: Forget that there are ladies present.

Q. Did you tell Dee Robinson of that conversation?

A. No.

Q. When was it Willie told you about this? Had you told this to Judge White?

A. Yes, the other day.

Dee Robinson for State.

Q. What is your name?

A. Dee Robinson.

Q. Where do you live?

A. In Belton.

Q. How do you make your living?

A. I run service cars.

Q. How long have you known the defendent?

A. All my life, 23 years. We were raised in the same community and went to school together.

Q. Did you know Miss Staley.

A. Yes, but I don't remember when I got acquainted with her, but guess it was about a year ago.

Q. When did you first go with Emma Staley?

A. About a year ago. Floyd Jackson took Julia Miller and I went with Emma Staley. We went riding in my car.

Q. When did you go with her again?

A. About two weeks after that. I went to the house to see her. Jackson went with me to see Miss Miller, We took the girls out riding in my car. It's a Ford.

Q. Was it before Willie Porter married?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you next go with Miss Staley?

A. About a month later after the fair. Floyd Jackson and I went out in the car after Miss Miller and then after Miss Staley.

Q. When were you again with Miss Staley?

With Girl Before Death.

A. On Saturday before she disappeared on Monday. Floyd Jackson made the date and we went out Saturday night. We first went to Temple and then to Belton, and then we went to Staley's farm.

Q. Did you ever see Miss Staley after that?

A. No.

Q. Did you know of Miss Staley's disappearance before you heard of the body being found in the river?

A. No. I heard about it when I was sick in bed.

Q. What did you do the day after being with her on Saturday?

A. I stayed here in town until 2:20 and went to Waco.

Q. And why did you go to Waco?

A. I went to see the New York Giants play Waco.

Q. Who was with you?

A. Several other boys. We got back at 9:30 that night.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Willie Porter about Miss Staley prior to his marriage.

A. No.

Q. Did you know when he married?

A. I found out about his marriage, but I don't know when it happened.

Q. Had you been going with Miss Staley prior to the time you heard of Mr. Porter's marriage?

A. Two weeks or a month.

Q. Did you hear that he was married before or after the Bell county fair?

A. After the fair.

Q. Have you had any conversation with him since his marriage about Miss Staley?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. About ten days or two weeks before I heard of the death of Emma Staley.

Q. Where was that conversation?

A. South side of the Belton National bank. He asked me if I would take her out riding and meet him somewhere. He did not state his purpose.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said I would not do it.

Q. Where and when had you seen Miss Staley prior to Saturday night.

A. I saw her in town Saturday afternoon.

Hair again objected that prosecution was asking leading questions. The judge asked White to refrain.

In substance, Robinson told of seeing Miss Staley pass the Santa Fe depot, while he was waiting for the train in his car.

He said he saw her a half an hour later when he was in a car belonging to another boy.

Q. Dee, you say that you went with this young lady five or six times. When you were with her did she conduct herself as any young lady would?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you ever at any time intimate in a criminal way with the young lady?

A. No, sir.

Cross-examination.

Mr. Robinson, you say that you first went with this young lady about two weeks after meeting her about a year ago, which would make it some time in June or July. You say that Miss Miller and Mr. Jackson, you and Miss Staley went out in the car about three weeks later. You took her out again then in August. After that you went with her every two or three weeks. You say you never went out alone, but always went with Jackson. Did you go with the top up or down?

A. Sometimes up and sometimes down.

Q. Do you know of any one else keeping company with Miss Staley besides yourself?

A. No, sir.

Q. Just how many times do you remember going to see her?

A. Four times.

Q. Do you mean to tell this jury that you went to see her only four times? You know you said you were with her first in June or July, then on March 12. How were you with her only twice in between those six or seven months? Didn't you say that you went with her every two or three weeks?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How many times did you go with her since Christmas?

A. Twice.

Q. Do you remember going with Kelly Uttey out to the farm one night to see the girls and they were at home, and you then went over to Midway to see them at church, and took them home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then that makes twice. Do you mean to tell me that you never went out to see her except the Saturday before her disappearance on Monday?

A. I don't know. I guess I must have gone three times, then.

Q. When did the conversation between you and Porter about his meeting the girl out with you take place?

A. About eleven days before I heard of her death.

Q. What day of the week?

A. A Saturday.

Q. Was it the same Saturday that you went out there—the 10th of March?

A. No.

Q. When, then, did you hear of her death?

A. When her body was found in the river.

Q. I don't understand. Her body was discovered the 23rd of March, eleven days after her disappearance. Do you mean eleven days before she disappeared or eleven days before she was found?

A. I mean what I said. Eleven days before I heard of her death.

Q. That would make it the same Saturday, and yet you say that it is not the same Saturday. Do you want to change your testimony?

A. I don't.

Q. Where were you on the night of Monday, March 12?

A. I was in town until 8 o'clock that night and then I went home sick.

Q. Have you any witnesses that know you were at home sick?

A. My Grandfather and Grandmother Dawson.

Q. What was the matter with you?

A. Measles and slow fever.

Q. When did you call a doctor? Didn't you tell the state awhile ago that you called a doctor three days later?

A. Yes, but it was two days later.

Q. What doctor?

A. Doctor Batte. I was sick in bed sixteen days. I never knew anything about Emma Staley's disappearance until they read it to me when I was in bed.

Q. Do you sleep alone?

A. Yes.

Q. When did the folks go to bed?

A. At 10 o'clock.

Q. Did any one sit up with you?

A. No.

Q. Isn't it true that you knew you were suspected of the murder and to protect yourself you and your friends have joined together to testify against Porter in such a way as to convict him to save yourself?

A. I had heard it, but I am not trying to convict him for that reason.

Q. Did you ever have any conversation about this with Len Archer?

A. No, sir.

Re-direct.

Q. At the time you left to go home on Monday night, did you speak to any of the boys about going home?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to bed soon after reaching home?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you take any medicine?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have fever?

A. I don't know, but I think so.

Q. You say you had heard that you were suspected of the murder. Did you ever hear it from any one except the defendant's lawyer?

A. No, sir.

Q. How tall are you?

A. Six feet and six inches.

Q. Stand up. How tall was Miss Staley?

A. About five feet. I judge.

NURSE HAD POOR HEALTH

Suffered Much Pain, Yet Had to Work. Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Toledo, Ohio.—"I am a widow and go out nursing, and suffered from a female trouble that caused a great deal of soreness across my back, and through my abdomen. Sometimes it would be very painful after a hard day's work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it and it has helped me wonderfully, so the soreness is all gone now. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the remedy for female troubles." — Mrs. ELIZABETH JOHN, R. F. D. No. 4, Toledo, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today is regarded as the most successful remedy for female ills. There are thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., to prove this fact.

SHORT ONES.

Civil war in China? Huh! Let's turn over and dream of the glorious times our ancestors had during the revolution and war of secession.

Our descendants will envy us for the fun we are having with the kings and kaisers.

It is reported the coal kings are willing to let the government run the business, if only a few more weeks of monopolized manipulation will be allowed. Aren't those coal kings the mad philanthropists?

GERMANY AT ITS LOWEST.

EVEN in war there are supposed to be certain "rules of the game" based on humanity and fundamental decency among nations which have in the course of centuries led to the abandonment of primitive practices such as the enslavement of conquered nations, the slaughter of women and children, the bombardment of unprotected cities and coasts, and the sinking of unarmed vessels without warning.

One reason that the United States is at war with Germany is that Germany has not observed these unwritten "rules of the game." Germany has violated practically all of them. The last to be violated is that in regard to enslaving a conquered nation. It is many centuries since this species of slavery has been practiced; yet Germany has practiced it against the unoffending Belgians. A calm, complete and unemotional report has just been made to our state department by the Belgian minister, Mr. de Cartier, who gives the history of each step of the German activities which led finally to the deportation of thousands of Belgians.

The conclusion of this document sums the matter up as follows:

"Before their departure they are formally called upon to choose between a so-called 'voluntary' engagement for work in Germany, with seemingly high wages and, on the other hand, deportation, with a wage which is a mockery (30 pfennigs a day). Whether they sign the contract or not, it means forced separation from their families. The immense majority refuse to sign, and even refuse to work. They are then subjected to horrible treatment, regulatd cleverly and applied with the refinement of calculated cruelty which, it had been thought, was the attribute only of savage peoples or of those who had returned to savagery. Torture by hunger, by thirst, by cold, by standing rigidly, by whippings, threats of imprisonment and of death; blows with the rifle butt, etc.; every means were employed to overcome the resistance of these obscure heroes of patriotic duty.

"Reports that would make any civilized man tremble with indignation have come into the possession of the Belgian government showing the unspeakable suffering inflicted on thousands of innocent people in the camps where the German government has caused them to be huddled together, in order that this herd of pitiable human cattle may be sorted out and enslaved for the end of despotism.

"The suffering is perhaps still worse among those unfortunates who are sent to points behind the German lines in Flanders and in France.

"Compelled, in spite of themselves, to undertake heavy toil and to work outdoors during the severest season of the year, without having been trained or hardened, exposed to artillery fire, deprived of proper clothing, and scarcely nourished, a multitude of these unfortunates soon fall from exhaustion and from illness. The mortality on the spot seems to be considerable. The sick and dying who can still be transported are sent home with less regard than slaves received in antiquity from their masters, who were interested in the care of human chattels who formed a part of their riches. Thru the pitiable convoys of these repatriated Belgians there has been revealed the life which their compatriots lead who remain behind at work. There is only one word which can describe it: 'It is a hell.'"

GET READY!

PLEASED with the response to the liberty loan, Secretary McAdoo has wired banks and other organizations to maintain their "splendid machinery" for use when the next appeal is made.

Of course, Mr. McAdoo is right. The "splendid machinery" should be kept well greased and improved upon, if possible, for it is evident that our war bill will total $5,000,000,000, maybe $8,000,000,000, in addition to what has just been subscribed. Just when the next appeal will be made is not known, but it will be made after congress has fixed war taxes, which means that the subscriptions will be made under conditions decidedly more favorable than those under which the people have just responded.

What is true of our financial machinery is also true of our organized efforts to increase the food production. Now is the time to systematically organize for the planting of next year, regardless of what this season's harvest turns out to be. Now is the time to locate and list vacant arable lands and put them at the command of the producers of 1918. War or no war, 1918 is going to see a frightfully hungry world.

MEET YOUR ALTER EGO.

DR. JOHN DOE, meet your alter ego, J. Doe. (The same introduction applies equally to Jane Doe.)

J. Doe, your alter ego, your second half, can be a good friend of yours if you will only let him. You can see J. Doe any time by going up to the mirror, but that isn't really the best way to get acquainted with him. A walk in the evening, a quiet corner of the porch, or a wakeful half hour after you have gone to bed is the best time to meet J. Doe. You already know J. Doe a good deal better than any one else, and he can help you a lot if you will only let him.

You know J. Doe so well that you know whether J. Doe is doing as well as he is able. You can point out J. Doe's defects to him. You know just exactly what J. Doe's defects are. Now take J. Doe and regard him as your bosom friend, the kind that you can talk to plainly. You just go into conference with J. Doe and tell him just exactly what you think of him. Recall to his mind that he is making a fool of himself in more ways than one. Criticize him unmercifully. Call him right up on the carpet. It's all right if you talk plainly enough so that J. Doe shows a little temper and resentment. You are the only one who knows all about J. Doe. You know even how J. Doe thinks.

Then when you are thru and J. is either in tears or fighting mad, you stop and think over what you have been telling him. You take it to heart. The chances are that the advice is good.

Kipling was all wrong when he wrote, "He travels farthest who travels alone." The best traveling companion any one can have, one that will push you forward on the journey of life, is a good, friendly, helpful alter ego that is always on the job. If John Doe is as good a man as he would advise J. Doe, his alter ego, to be, he will probably do well.

WHERE DOES JOHN LIVE, ANYWAY?

WHERE does John D. Rockefeller live?

Also, where does he pay taxes?

The United States supreme court says he doesn't live in East Cleveland, Ohio, and doesn't have to pay taxes there.

This decision lets him out of paying on $311,000,000 on which Cuyahoga county had expected to gather in $1,100,000 in taxes.

Rockefeller has been famous for shuttling his residence around the map. Now that the supreme court has decided where he doesn't live, it may be possible for some authority to decide where he does live.

AMERICA, THE FINANCIAL COLOSSUS.

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Suppose you take your pad and pencil and just make a few notes about this country of ours as to its wealth.

Do you realize that you are living in the richest nation in the world?

The United States of America contains about 103,145,000 people. Their total wealth is estimated at $230,000,000,000, or $2,225 per capita. This includes not only actual money, but also real estate, factories, railways, etc.

We are nearly twice as rich as the British empire, the wealth of which is placed at $130,000,000,000; five times as rich as France, with her $50,000,000,000; six times as rich as Russia, with $40,000,000,000; twelve times Italy, with $20,000,000,000; sixteen times Japan, with $15,000,000,000, and two and a half times Germany, Austria and Turkey combined.

The comptroller of the currency at Washington, who certainly ought to know, says that there are in the United States at present more than 10,000,000 individuals and corporations who have subscribed to the liberty loan in amounts ranging from $100 to $100,000.

He further states that there are in the country more than 40,000,000 persons engaged in gainful occupations, besides the large number of men and women whose income is derived from their investments. If every individual in the United States had bought government bonds to the extent of only 5 per cent of his or her total possessions the loan would have been subscribed six times over.

The reports of our national savings banks on March 5, 1917, showed that the banks had a total of 15,739,969 deposit accounts, which is 1,449,910 more than on May 1, 1916.

The total increase of deposits in national banks during these ten months was about $2,000,000,000.

The latest bank returns, including banks and trust companies of all kinds, indicate total resources of $35,000,000,000, exceeding by far the greatest banking resources ever before shown in any country.

A great Chicago financier, Mr. Armour, recently declared:

"I consider the present the most auspicious period from the standpoint of national prosperity in my memory. There is not one good reason why the business of this country should not proceed in its normal course and on ever-increasing lines. There is not one reason why people should fear for the future or should permit themselves to be swayed from the certainty that they are on a sound financial basis. The per capita wealth of Americans today is greater than ever before—greater than that of the people of any nation at any time in the past or in the present. Our national wealth is past the wildest dreams of a few years back.

"Whether the war ends tomorrow or whether it lasts indefinitely, this much is certain: The United States, having possession of approximately 40 per cent of the world's supply of gold, the greatest natural resources, and geographical isolation, is certain to suffer less than any other nation in the war or in the whole world."

CRIMINALS' RIGHTS.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

The last ten years have seen some marvelous advances in the humane and enlightened treatment of members of society imprisoned for wrongdoing. It has come to my knowledge that here and there forces are now at work tending to prevent further progress in this direction—tending indeed to undo much of the good that has been accomplished.

Against these forces only one thing can prevail—the power of an educated public sentiment.

And to educate public sentiment aright a first essential is to effect universal appreciation of the truth that wrongdoers remain human beings in spite of their wrongdoing, and as human beings have certain rights that ought to be respected.

They have the right, to begin with, of being so treated that they shall, if possible, be converted into doers of good instead of evil.

As indispensable to this they have the right of careful individual study to ascertain their physical and mental condition.

Modern criminologists have discovered that crime is often the indirect product of physical defects and mental abnormalities. Habitual thieving, for example, has sometimes been found associated with serious but unsuspected diseases of the teeth.

The dental disease, through causing nerve strain or poisoning the whole system, has weakened the will power and the moral sense. Put the teeth in order and the wrongdoer at once becomes more responsive to moral training.

At the opposite extreme, some criminals are incurably feeble-minded or insane. Their criminality is really a symptom of their mental state.

Manifestly, moral training can do little or nothing for such unfortunates. But neither should they be held responsible for their misdeeds.

The proper place for them is not a prison, but an institution for the mentally afflicted. Frequently, however, recognition of their mental trouble is impossible unless experts have a chance to examine them.

Accordingly, it is a right of every wrongdoer to have a thorough mental examination follow his conviction for crime. And he has the right to be physically examined for any bodily defect that may account in part for his wrongdoing.

If a defect of this sort be found in him he has the right to be given curative treatment for it. After this, or coincidental, he has the right to be given MORAL TREATMENT THAT WILL STRENGTHEN HIS WILL POWER AND KINDLE IN HIM A REAL DESIRE TO LEAD A NON-CRIMINAL LIFE.

This means that he has the right to be decently housed, provided with ample and nourishing food, and afforded opportunity for exercise in the open air. Denied this right, the possibility of influencing him by moral training is reduced perhaps to the vanishing point.

For it is an axiom of modern moral educators that physical vigor and moral strength tend to go hand in hand. Prison officials often forget this. It is necessary for them to keep it in mind, and for the public to make sure that they shall keep it in mind.

Finally, the mentally sound man imprisoned for wrongdoing has the right to be wisely disciplined.

For his own good he needs to be trained in habits of respect for law and authority, habits of orderly living and habits of self-control.

All this training, though, must be given him by men inspired with sentiments of true HUMAN SYMPATHY. Otherwise the wrongdoer will react to the training by developing a spirit of bitterness and revolt.

Such are the principal rights of criminals. Until these rights are more generally appreciated, until society at large insists on their recognition, the problem of reforming criminals and lessening criminality will remain a problem unsolved.

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 1.

IT WAS RAINING.

ALONG BROADWAY.

BUT THE WEATHER REPORT.

IN THE MORNING PAPER.

SAID: "RAIN AND COLDER."

SO I DIDN'T TAKE

AN OVERCOAT OR UMBRELLA.

FINALLY IT POURED.

AND I PUT MY HAT.

UNDER MY COAT.

AND LET THE BIG DROPS.

BEAT ON MY HAIR.

AND I PASSED DOZENS.

WHO WERE GOING MY WAY.

EACH ROOFED.

WITH AN UMBRELLA.

BUT NOBODY SAID.

"AREN'T YOU GETTING WET?"

OR OFFERED ME.

WELCOME PROTECTION.

BACK IN THE LITTLE TOWN.

FROM WHENCE I CAME.

NO ONE CAN PASS.

WITHOUT THE FRIENDLY HAIL.

OR THE OFFER OF AID.

WHEN THE HEAVENS WEEP.

IF IT'S RAINING HARD.

PERHAPS THEY'LL ASK YOU.

TO STOP IN FOR DINNER.

AND AFTERWARD.

THEY WILL WAVE YOU.

OUT OF SIGHT.

FROM THE FRONT DOOR.

I KNOW WHAT'S THE MATTER.

I'M HOMESICK.

AND WET AND EVERYTHING.

AND NEXT DOOR THERE'S A MAN.

WHO IS TRYING TO SING.

"MASSA'S IN DE COLD, COLD GROUN'."

IT SOUNDS LONESOME.

AND GHOST-LIKE.

AND I DON'T LIKE GHOSTS.

THEY MAKE ME PERSPIRE SO.

AND MY WIFE'S AWAY.

AND MY DOG TWITCHES.

WHILE HE SLEEPS.

I DON'T LIKE IT.

AND THERE'S A FUNNY NOISE.

OUT IN THE COURT.

IT KINDA MOANS AND SIGHS.

AND DON'T THINK

FOR A SINGLE MOMENT.

I'M SCARED. THE IDEA!

BUT I GUESS I'LL GO OVER.

TO A FRIEND'S HOUSE.

AND STAY ALL NIGHT.

GOOD-BYE.

New York Ringed by Wall of War

Steel Spends Millions for Revelry

Special to The News.

New York, July 1.—While forts, mines, battleships and air squadrons guard New York, the nation's solar plexus, this town's monied spenders are setting new paces in their orgy of senseless, wasteful extravagance.

Gorged with war profits, they toss gold away with reckless abandon, while the professionals whose business it is to fleece their profits away reap ever greater winnings under the guise God save the mark!—of patriotism!

Outdoes London.

New York these days reminds me of London in the fall of 1914, when the rule was "Business as usual." But New York, blase and brazen, outdoes London, rivaling the Rome of Nero's time.

Recruiting officers harangue crowds from the steps of the public library. They get recruits—yes, they get recruits. But not as many as they should get in comparison with other cities, smaller cities of the west.

New York's patriotism is loudest, not in the recruiting offices but in the lobster palaces.

In these gilded resorts are cabarets and "revues" featuring women and girls half-clad in the stars and stripes, while diners and winers dizzily applaud "patriotic" airs sung to ragtime music by chorus girls in olive drab, in Red Cross costume, or in tights of red, white and blue.

Stage representations of Lincoln, Washington, Grant and of Wilson Pershing and even Roosevelt stalk in the limelight amongst settings of fair maidens showing much tri-colored silk and more bare skin.

The Gaudy Signs.

And still not all is sordid, for parties turned out of the cabarets at 1 a. m., the new closing time, have been seen to watch with bared heads and reverent faces the passing of the Salvation Army.

Liberty Loan and recruiting posters on Broadway are half-hidden by gaudy announcements of summer tango roofs, aesthetic cabarets and exclusive "clubs" where the wealthy "may dance in bare feet in a shallow tank of water."

At night the Great White Way is more blatantly illuminated than ever. There is a new electric advertisement containing hundreds of thousands of lights that is a city block long.

Do Big Business.

All theatres are doing a roaring business. It is estimated that $250,000 is spent nightly on shows, movies and "refreshments," altho the "lid" is clamped down hard at 1 a. m.

But underneath all this wealthy veneer of lightheartedness is a solid foundation of grim, seriousness and patriotism.

The bulk of the people realize that these are no frivilous times. Harassed housewives, constanly contending with rising food prices have no illusions about the pinch of war.

No sooner was the selective service registration completed than the city commenced to take its census of all persons between the ages of 16 and 50 for war service.

Home Guards.

The congestion of neutral shipping in the Hudson, the closing of the port while minefields are being shifted, the 30,000 uniformed home defense league men standing guard outside powerhouses, public buildings, tunnel entrances, bridges and dock gates, armored police motor cars with powerful searchlights speeding around at night, are sights that are driving into the great mass of the people of the biggest city in the world a realization of the truth that this country is slowly, silently, but surely getting ready to strike a mighty blow at the foes of freedom.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

HERE'S HOPING.

That necessary fruit,
The spud,
Has fallen with a noisy
Thud.
Two bones a barrel
Cheaper than

The wholesale price of

Gee, that's luck.
But hold!

That shout.
Will your corner grocer

Butter is now only 46 cents a pound, eggs only 44 cents a dozen, sugar only $2.15 for 25 pounds, strawberries only 25 cents a basket, tea only 75 cents a pound, and asparagus only 40 cents a bunch. Marvelous!

They tell us professional humorists are never funny, and this may be true to a certain extent, but there is an occasional rift in the cloud of gloom which usually settles darkly over the city which entertains the annual convention. One day of the humorists' convention had been given over to sight-seeing on farms. The crowd visited a half-dozen of these model farms and saw nothing but cattle. When they got back to headquarters some one asked George Bingham of Kentuck, how he felt. eGorge replied: "Damn if I don't feel cowed."

ANGELS ABROAD.

My neighbor's boys are always good
And act as perfect creatures should
(At least he says they do);
Yet I have seen them take a bat
And beat an inoffensive cat,
And, when they could, beat two.

I wonder why a parent pays
So much good time in singing praise
When he might thrash each lad!
Now, my own boys are not inclined
To misbehave; once told they mind—
They're never, never bad.

A noted writer claims there is a heavy decline in American literature. It is often difficult to agree with a noted writer, but after having tried most of the high and low brow magazines in this country and one or two in Europe, we are inclined to believe this one is more than half right. The magazines seem to be declining more literature than ever.

"HETTY"

A DIARY OF FORMER STENOGRAPHER REVEALS OFFICE HISTORY TO HETTY.

BEGIN HERE

Hetty Anderson, 22, leaves Rogers after her mother's death, comes to Waco, and settles in a cheap boarding house, where she meets a rather fascinating woman, Mrs. Nell Brady, who has left her husband for "Billy" Matthews, a well-to-do man about town. When Billy takes Hetty out with him and Nell, he falls in love with Hetty and a scene with Nell follows. Nell goes back to her husband and Billy pursues Hetty's friendship while she works at Fanger's and later at the Bethlehem Machinery company. He takes her to Cameron park in his car on a picnic, where he tells her he loves her, but for the moment scouts marriage.

Hetty's desirability finally provokes Billy into a proposal of marriage, but he tells her that he cannot promise to be true to her after marriage, but will try to be. She leaves him in disgust.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 49.

No sound had come from the inner room, but I had a feeling that Mr. Durham was in there. Young Baker had stalked in, passing by necessity through my office, but he had not vouchsafed me a look nor a word.

In the outer space, where the machine shop was located, the men in greasy overalls slouched past the windows. They, too, had the peculiar expression of men who are working for bosses that they don't like.

I busied myself nervously in clearing my desk, awaiting the summons from the inner room, and all the time turning over in the back of my head my tumultous adventure of the day before.

In the bottom of the last drawer I made a discovery; a little black leather memorandum book, which I thought might be a record of sales. I opened it and found it to be a diary of the little stenographer whose place I had usurped.

The fly leaf read: "Patty Hadley."

I did not try to resist the temptation to read, for I thought in this way the mystery of the peculiar office spirit might be fathomed. The girl, who evidently was ambitious to write, expressed herself oin rather crude language, her style improving as the diary continued.

It was a rather uneventful catalogue of events but occasionally light was thrown on the office situation by such remarks as: "Grant Baker came to work in the office today. Durham almost had a scene with Mr. Baker over Grant's being taken on, but I guess Durham was a little bit afraid to go very far. Anyway, Sparks, a really good bookkeeper, is thrown out of a position and he has been here for five years. Baker has the stool and Durham has a grouch.

* * *

"The boss's wife, a pretty young woman, with a golden-haired baby, came in today, and she seemed inclined to notice me, but was afraid of her husband. The baby had a balloon, and was a cute little thing. I wish Mrs. Durham would come oftener. I wonder what kind of woman she really is.

* * *

"I was too tired last night to see John. He rang me and askes to take me to a picture show. Someway Mr. Durham got on the line and heard the conversation. When we got through he came in and said, with his lip slightly curled: 'I suggest that you confine your telephone conversation to business matters only.' Of course I saw that as a matter of efficiency I should not use the phone for private conversation, but it did not add anything to my love for the firm to be told so.

* * *

"Sunshine came in today. I am almost in love with the cheery souled little man. His wife must not care much for him, for she is content to stay away from him. He pretends that she is crazy about him, but I know. You can't blame him for taking a little pleasure outside. I have been so lunch with him several times, and I don't feel that I have cheated his wife out of anything. His kindly little face just beams and he confides in me about the rough places. He and Durham don't love each other too well, although he's the best salesman they have, and he and 'Chris' draw blood every time they meet. I wonder sometimes if things won't come to a head here. I hope that I shall be able to stay out of it all."

* * *

I have quoted only a few extracts of the kind which are not too personal and yet throw light on the subject of the office and its management. With the guilty feeling of an eavesdropper I tucked the little book away, hoping that the troubled little girl who had written it would never know that its secrets had been poked into.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

PRACTICAL NURSE BELIEVES TANLAC HAS SAVED HER LIFE

"I WOULDN'T TAKE A THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE GOOD TANLAC IS DOING HER," HUSBAND SAYS—OVERCAME SUFFERINGS OF FIFTEEN YEARS.

"Do you know, I have gained at least fifteen pounds, and I honestly believe Tanlac has saved my life." This statement was made by Mrs. E. F. Milner of 403 Washington street, Waco, in a conversation with a Tanlac representative a few days ago. Mrs. Milner is a practical nurse and is known and respected by almost everybody in Corsicanna, Texas, where she has lived for twenty-six years.

"My health has been broken," she continued, "and I have been steadily going down hill for ten years. I had constant headaches and was in a general run-down condition. And last year I was taken down with some kind of trouble I have never been able to find out just what it was. I was confined to my bed and was not able to stand alone, much less walk. It seemed to me like there were thousands of pounds pressure around my waist and in my chest. When I lay down it looked like I would smother to death, so I had to sit up to breathe and prop up in bed to be able to sleep and get any rest at all. I was told I would never get over my trouble and of course I felt discouraged and despondent.

"After reading about the good Tanlac was doing so many others I bought a bottle hoping it would help me, and I am obliged to give it all praise. In my long experience with medicines I have never seen anything as good, and I am satisfied it has saved my life. Not only that, I am feeling better than I have in over two years already and have just finished my second bottle of Tanlac. My head is better and I am strong enough to walk anywhere I want to go and can do all my work about the house. As I have already said, I have gained at least fifteen pounds and am so happy over my recovery that I want to tell everybody about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Waco by Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

U. S. GUN CREW FIRES AT SUBMARINES—THINK ONE PERISCOPE BROKEN

By Associated Press.

London, July 1.—The gun crew of an American liner fired on two German submarines during her voyage from the United States to England. Both targets were at a considerable range, but the report to Washington of the commanding officer will express the belief that one periscope was shattered.

A third submarine was cited, but at a great distance and it submerged immediately.

The passengers expressed the greatest admiration for the marksmanship of the American gunners as shown both in practice and against the enemy. One member of the crew of the liner formerly was a gunner in the British navy and he won applause from the American gunners by making a bull's eye hit on a barrel target during practice. On one occasion the Americans made seven bull's eyes out of eight trials.

RIOTOUS SCENES AT BOSTON WHEN SOCIALISTS PARADE

By Associated Press.

Boston, July 1.—Riotous scenes today attended a socialist parade announced as a peace demonstration. The ranks of the marchers were broken up by self-organized squads of uniformed soldiers and sailors, red flags and banners bearing socialist mottoes were trampled.

The police stopped the rioting in an hour and a half. Many arrests were made.

Little Stories for Bedtime

The surest way to learn a thing
Is just to try to do it.
And then to try and try and try
As if you really knew it.

And the first thing you know you will find that you will know it There is nothing like learning by doing. You may watch others do a thing and think that you have learned just how to do it yourself, but when you come to try it you find it is a very different matter.

Now, Mrs. Billy Mink knows this. So does Billy. No one knows it better than they do. So when their five babies were just a little too big to be called babies any longer, or at least too big to feel that they were babies, Mrs. Billy began to teach them the ways of the Great World. At least she began to teach them the ways of that part of the Great World which would be likely to concern a healthy Mink.

Of course, the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows are not taught out of books or in the way that our little boys and girls are taught. They are altogether in the great School of Experience, which is the school of learning by doing. And they begin very young. Usually Mother is along to help them out of trouble when they make mistakes and to keep them from harm. Also she shows them how to do things. She does it by doing a thing, and they, being natural little imitators, try to do the same thing, and so they learn.

That was the way it was with Mrs. Billy Mink and the five little Minks. Just as soon as they were big enough she took them for a walk in the Green Forest. First she led them to an old stump which was very much rotted and in this she began to dig, for it was so decayed that it was what is called punk, and her sharp claws made it fly. Seeing her dig, the five little Minks began to dig, too, and thought it great fun. Presently a beetle ran out and their mother pounced on it and ate it. The five little minks watched her and their mouths watered. Then she began to dig again and so did they. Almost right away another beetle ran out right under the nose of one of the little Minks. He knew what to do. Of course. He pounced on it and ate it and smacked his lips, while the mouths of the other little Minks watered.

"Was it good?" asked one.

"M-m-m," was all the lucky one said, and began to hunt for another.

But there were no more in this particular stump and Mother Mink led them to an old log under which were some more beetles, enough for every little Mink to have one. So they learned that beetles were good to eat, and where to look for them and how to get them.

A little farther on Mrs. Billy suddenly stopped and stood perfectly still. The five little Minks did just as she did, though why she did it they hadn't the least idea. But presently they heard footsteps. Mother's ears being trained had heard them first. They saw her sniffing the air and so they sniffed, too, and presently they smelled something strange.

Just as Soon as They Were Big Enough She Took Them for a Walk in The Green Forest.

"Hide!" said their mother sharply but softly, and darted under a heap of brush. The five little Minks did the same thing just because she did. The footsteps came nearer and nearer, and peeping out they saw some one so big they couldn't believe their own eyes. They hadn't dreamed that any one could be so big. It was Buster Bear. They could smell him very strongly now and they didn't like the smell, because they knew that he was some one to fear or Mother would not have hidden. So they learned to use their ears and their noses, and the next time they met Buster Bear they would know that the thing to do was to hide. They had learned it by doing it. And many more things they learned in just that same way before they returned to the hollow log under the pile of brush beside the Laughing Brook.

BURY YOUR DEAD NOTIONS.
By Mary E. Walter.

Every day sacred old notions about life and living knocked out by science go to join their dead ancestors. There are the "air notions," for example. For years folks thought they suffered from "lack of oxygen and too much carbonic acid gas," while bad air is merely the effect on the skin of hot, moist, still air—heat stroke, in close rooms, harmlessly smelly from old clothes, bad breath, etc. "Fresh air" is cool, moving, moderately dry air having a physical effect rather than a chemical one.

The deadly "draught" is harmless when gentle, for cool, moving air promotes efficiency, though even yet people "catch cold" from it, when cold cuts little figure. Instead germs "catch" us through lowered body resistance. "Night air" is as pure as day air, while "malaria" bad air, isn't air at all, but mosquitoes. Air can't be "germ laden," since germs seldom float. "Sewer gas" is another dry hoax, smelly but innocent, and the benefits of "ozone" are a joke.

"Then the food notions. Fruits don't "harm the teeth" and don't "form acids in the system." They prevent dental decay and have an alkaline reaction in the body, while the acid forming food are meats, fish, eggs and cereals. The "indigestibility of cheese is a slander on a very good food which should be chewed thoroughly. Meat is "strengthening" in small quantities, but much of it reduces endurance. "Fasting to reduce!" Poor, weak, fat lady! Now she may stuff herself full of "non-fattening" foods. Poor, deluded ones, who wash out their pocket books with oceans of "spring medicine," needing only proper food and plenty of water.

There are loads of disproving notions about "catching" infectious diseases, which are really "caught" only by contact with the excreta of infected humans. Dirt does not breed infection, as once believed; germs get into it, as into milk and food, from infected humans or sources infected by humans. Moreover, "children's diseases" are not necessary, and if properly treated would die out entirely.

There are the old bogies about "ear rings improving sight," "tuberculosis being hereditary," "lockjaw from rusty nails," "red flannel for sore throats," "lunatics affected by the moon." Give each a tombstone! "Singeing the hair" is a useless measure applied to a bad tissue. "Play wastes time"—never! Play rejuvenates body, mind, and efficiency. "The debuntante slouch" died of ugliness, because it was harmful to internals and indicated weak muscles and nerves and a light head.

"To suffer and suppress" is a notion that should died and be buried because it gives rise to mental and bodily strain, is bad for the liver and the looks. Another dying notion: That the mind doesn't affect the body. It does, and can make it very ill or very well. Another dying notion: That religion is only for the soul. It soothes the mind, and so heals the body of many ills.

The Girl's Job

A BICYCLE VACATION.
By Jesse Roberts.

How about a bicycle vacation?

Four girls have decided to solve the question that way this summer. They used to ride a good deal, but gave it up when the craze died away. So they are preparing for the exercise by riding every Saturday afternoon when the weather permits, hiring the wheels by the hour.

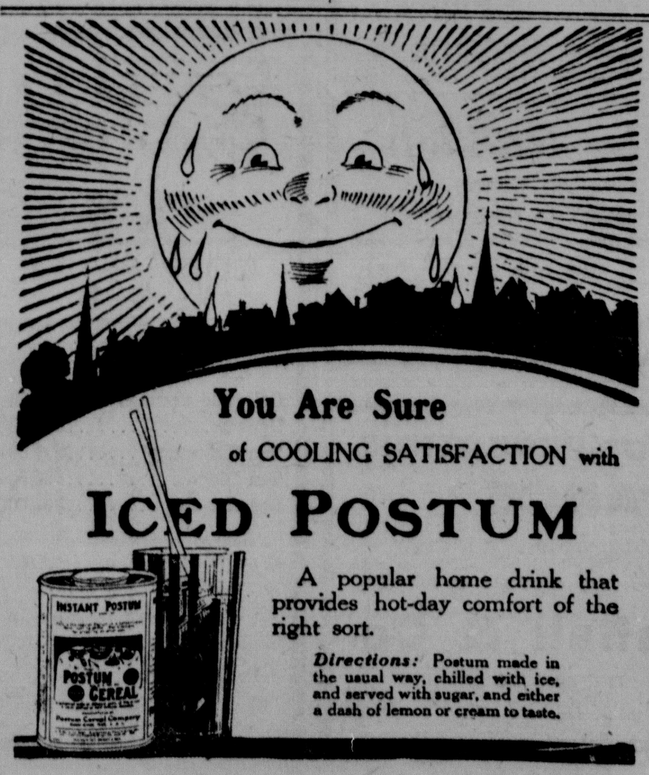

For each bicycle, when the time comes for the vacation, they will have a little waterproof case that can be securely strapped on behind with a poncho. In this case they will pack the necessary toilet articles, a change of linen, an extra pair of shoes, etc. In front of the handlebars, rolled into a waterproof catch-all, is a sweater, and room to keep articles of food that can be carried easily—a small package of tea, one of ground coffee, a can of sardines, some bacon and bread or crackers. Two of the girls each carry one of the small but adequate folding scout services for cooking, one has a coffee pot, the last packs along some towels, soap and a collapsible pail.

They do not mean to sleep out and have no ten parapheranalia to bother with, but they do mean to eat one or two meals each day in the open, unless the weather is bad.

They have laid out their trip carefully, and know the distances between villages or farmhouses so that they can count on getting to a night's lodging in good season.

"We aren't going to wear ourselves out trying to cover any great distance, or to make daily records, but just have a fine outdoor time, see the country, stay at a different place every night, and spend as little money on it as possible," is the way one of them summed it up.

Perhaps there are other girls who would enjoy the same kind of vacation.

Reporter Watches Beggar and Finds His Trade is One of Much Promise

He stood on the corner of Austin and Fifth a few nights ago playing plaintive tunes on a battered violin. A small dog stood by his side and served as a guide when he was ready to move locations. For he was a blind musician and the pennies, nickels and occasional dimes that were dropped into his hat by pedestrians served as his only support.

A precarious livelihood at its best people often wonder how the beggar ekes out his existence. Here is a record of an hours work with a battered violin, a diminutive dog and a cracked tenor voice.

A shower of pennies from a little girl who had been sent by her mother from a car stationed at the curb.

A nickel from a "newsie" who had just made a sale.

Twenty-five cents from an easy going chap who stepped out of a restaurant where he had just had a hearty meal.

Three dimes in quick succession coming from a man who was rushing to catch a home bound car, an old man who limped by with the aid of a cane and a fashionably dressed woman.

Several nickels from ordinary pedestrians who had no special distinction to mark them from the crowd and a dime from another little girl accompanied by a negro maid and home bound from a picture show.

Pretty fair proceeds for an hour's work. Beggars know Waco as a "charitable" town.

A set of high-grade band instruments at about one-half price. Instruments of all kinds repaired. Prices reasonable. Charles Parker, Waco, Texas, 508½ Franklin St.—Adv.

POLICE DOCKET INCREASED DURING MONTH OF JUNE

The docket at the police station shows an increase in arrests over last month. In May there were 480 arrests recorded while in April the total amounted to 569. The great majority of these are for minor offenses and few serious crimes are recorded on the police records. In June 92 arrests were made for violation of the tail light ordinance and speeding. Over 80 of these were for violations of the tail light ordinance, 14 coming in one day.

Saturday night usually sees the largest number of arrests and the Sunday docket is unusually clean as a rule. Several auto thefts were reported during the month, most of them happening during the first week of June.

DEFEAT VISITS NAVS TWICE IN DOUBLE HEADER

JAMES CLOUTS PILL OVER FENCE BUT M'LARRY DUPLICATES THE FEAT.

Shreveport, La., July 1.—Shreveport took both games of a double header from the Waco team here today, winning the first 3 to 2 and the second game 6 to 0.

With the score 2 to 1 against the locals in the ninth inning of the first game, Nixon walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on Burke's two bagger to center. Burke took third on the throw in and scored on Cain's sacrifice fly to right, enabling the locals to win out 3 to 2.

Gleason's effective pitching in the second combat aided by the locals' hits for extra bases enabled Shreveport to shut out Waco. James got a home run in the first and McLarry duplicated James' feat in the second game. The scores:

FIVE AIRMEN WILL REACH WACO TODAY

The aviation squad of Captain Bowen of the San Antonio aviation corps will reach Waco probably about noon or a little after, today, landing in Highland Place.

A telegram was received Saturday by W. W. Cameron, telling of the proposed visit, and asking for information relative to the landing place, which would be designated. This landing place has been marked off with white canvas, making it easy for the aviators to find it when they arrive today.

There will be five of the fliers, and the sight will be a pretty one as they come whirling into view, one after another, taking up their positions and flying around over the city while waiting for the landing of each unit of the party. The Chamber of Commerce committees have made all necessary arrangements for the coming of the airmen.

The other day, Cincinnati, in a game with St. Louis, made twenty-five hits and scored fifteen runs—the season's record!

It was the kind of game that warms the heart of the old-timer and gratifies the passion of the modern fan who is always complaining of light hitting and low scores.

In the old days such scores as this one would never cause one to marvel. The old boys sure shook a mean bat. F'r instance!

Back in 1893, Cincinnati ran up another big score of hits and runs. Cincinnati beat Louisville, 30 to 12, making 14 runs in the first inning. The day's total was 32 singles, 5 doubles, 5 triples and 4 homers—total bases 59.

In Chicago vs. Detroit game, Sept. 6, 1883, the score was 26 to 6 in favor of the former. In the seventh inning, the Cubs sent 26 men to bat, making 18 hits, and scoring 18 runs. There were 14 men up before any putouts were made.

In the Bush league, Corsicana—that unusual little club in the Texas league that seems to hold all records of all kinds—claims this record for a game of July 14, 1902: Score, Corsicana 54, Texarkana 2; 10 doubles, 12 triples and 19 home runs were made!

Tacoma in the Northwest league in four consecutive games in 1915 made 92 hits; first game, 29; second game, 17; third game, 22; fourth game, 24.

Niagara 209, Columbus 10, was the score of a game played in Buffalo, N. Y., way back in 1869.

Cincinnati also holds the modern record for the major leagues in a game played at Cincinnati, June 4, 1911. Score: Cincinnati 26, Boston 3.

Philadelphia 24, Detroit 2, is the American league mark made in Philadelphia, May 18, 1912.

Detroit walloped Cleveland to the tune of 21 to 0, September 15, 1901.

The Giants made 13 two-baggers off Rucker, Barger and Dent, in a game with the Dodgers in Brooklyn, April 13, 1911.

FREE FOR ALL STAGED SUNDAY IN BALL GAME

OLD WOUNDS OPENED IN DALLAS-HOUSTON RIVALRY OF THE PAST.

Houston, July 1.—Bad blood rose up between the Houston and Dallas teams in the second game of a double header in which the visitors took both games. Police were called to the field to stop two fights. Three men were put off the field. Officers were also present to protect Umpire Paul Sentell at the end of the second game.

Trouble with the umpire started when a drive by Stuart in the seventh inning of the first game was called foul. The tieing run was then ready to score. Manager Newnam of the Houston team was banished for disputing the decision.

Newnam and Schliebner had a mixup at first in the sixth inning of the second game. They were separated before any damage was done and both were put out of the game. In the same round Northen and Kuhn started things at the plate and the Houston player was banished from the game.

The first game was a pitching duel between Lewis and Hiett. In the second contest Compere held Houston to one hit. The scores:

Today and Every Day You Read Your Newspaper

If someone were to tell you that there was a man in this community who did not read the newspapers at all you would wish to know what in Sam Hill was wrong with him.

So common is the habit of newspaper reading, that the man who did not read his paper every day would distinctly lose caste among his neighbors—and would be regarded as mentally deficient, stone-blind, or as a suspiciously singular person.

It is this UNIVERSALITY of the newspaper that makes it the greatest of all advertising media.

The newspaper keeps a man familiar with his habitat. Without its help he would have no more VISION or grasp on life than a MOLE!

It is a certainty, then, that YOU read the newspapers—How MUCH of them do you READ?

Do you make the mistake of stopping when you get through with the News-of-the-Day, or do you read right on—into the ADVERTISING columns?

Your newspaper will never commence to be 100 per cent valuable to you until you become an ad reader—make up your mind to that!

CAMPAIGN STARTS ON MONDAY TO ENROLL WOMEN AS WAR AIDES

Today is the date set by Hoover for the enrollment of the women of the nation in the various branches of war service. In Waco and McLennan county some primary work toward this issue has been accomplished, but according to all information available no active steps have been taken toward a start on registration today.

Miss Decca Lamar West, who has been doing active work as one of the leaders in this district, states that the proper instructions have been slow in reaching Waco and that at the present time the state heads have not sent the necessary data to this district. Mrs. M. R. Austin, who is connected with the work of the Women's National Defense league in this county, has also had a share of the work in the primary plans. When these women have been furnished with the necessary regulations and the state head maps out the proper program for them to follow work will start in Waco and McLennan county in the registration of the women for war work.

Among the branches that the women of America will serve in are: Red Cross work, food conservation, ambulance drivers, farm workers, government jobs vacated by men who are at the front, garment inspectors, munition workers and inspectors, stenographers, war office workers, telegraphers and telephone operators.

DIAMOND CUFF BUTTONS FOUND BY WACO DETECTIVE

Chief Detective Craven has recovered a valuable pair of diamond cuff buttons which were given to Ben Lee Boynton on the occasion of his graduation here more than a year ago. The buttons were pawned by a negro woman for $1, and as they were worth many times the amount, suspicion was aroused. The negro woman at first claimed that she found the buttons, but finally confessed.

BAPTIST REVIVAL, PATRICK, WILL BEGIN JULY 8

The Baptist revival at Patrick will begin on Sunday, July 8, and extensive arrangements have been made for a big meeting.

The meeting will be in charge of Rev. Lovelace of Temple. Special arrangements are being made with regard to the singing and other features.

"THE FLAME OF THE YUKON" AT HIPPODROME.

"The Flame of the Yukon," a smashing drama of the great north during the stirring days of the gold rush is the vehicle in which Dorothy Dalton stars at the Hippodrome today only.

As a sort of Alaskan Carmen, Dorothy Dalton appears the queen of the dance hall girls, known throughout the Yukon as the "Flame." She is the trump card of "Black Jack" Hovey, proprietor of the Midas cafe, the most popular resort in the lively mining town. One night the place is visited by a stranger, and instead of tricking him as Black Jack has ordered she finds herself strangely interested in him. The outcome is that she aids him in making a fresh start in the gold fields, telling him not to return until he has "made good." The man's influence over her is for the good, and she decides to "go straight" and win his respect.

From this point the lives of the two become interwoven in series of thrilling events. The girl's better nature has been awakened, and she rises to every opportunity.

TEXAS TRAVELERS PLANNING A PICNIC

The Texas Travelers enjoyed one of the most interesting meetings in the history of the organization yesterday morning at the Raleigh. Splendid short inspirational talks were made on subjects of interest to traveling men.

President J. W. Barnett, Past President J. S. McClintock, B. R. Mason, L. W. Hilburn, T. C. Edmondson, George B. Eubank, Vice President M. L. Smith, Frank Brackin, W. B. Goolsby and others joined in the various discussions.

The matter of a Texas Travelers picnic at an early date was referred to the entertainment committee, W. B. Goolsby and Frank Brackin being added to the committee.

B. R. Mason, L. E. Armer of Austin and A. E. Waldrop were named to go to Austin to represent the Texas Travelers as an organization at the hearing on the interchangeable mileage question before the railroad commission on July 16.

Ira T. Jones, H. W. Hill and S. T. Armstrong were elected to membership.

PATRICK M. NEFF IN PATRIOTIC ADDRESS SUNDAY

A large audience at the Central Christian church Sunday morning heard Pat M. Neff deliver an address, taking as his subject, "The Declaration of American Independence." Mr. Neff's address was so handled as to show the reasons why the United States is engaged in the present struggle on the side of the entente allies, and the aims in behalf of democracy and humanity. The address was enthusiastically commended on all sides. This was a patriotic address in response to the recommendation of President Wilson, calling upon the ministers to have such services on Sunday. Dr. Calvin gave up his pulpit on Sunday morning to this service.

There was special music under direction of Prof. George Brierly, and Mrs. Joseph G. Wren sang.

SEMI-MONTHLY MEETING OF Y. M. H. A. SUCCESS

The first semi-monthly meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association for the new term was held last night at Temple Rodef Sholem.

After the regular business was disposed of, a report was read by L. B. Cohen, chairman of the association room committee, telling of the work which is being accomplished in regard to this matter. This committee has been materially strengthened by the addition of the board of control. Suitable quarters are now assured for the association in the near future. A short talk was made by L. Migel, chairman of the board of control assuring the members of their hearty co-operation in the undertaking. Installation of officers took place with program chairman in charge.

A resume of the work for the past six months was given by retiring Chairman Abe Gollob.

Committees to carry on the work of the various branches of the association were appointed as follows:

Athletics—Chairman, A. Gollob, A. Kawalski, J. Adams.

Finances—Chairman, Abe Cohen; Lape Lazarus, Sam Roebuck.

Membership—Chairman, Wm. Marks, Abe Levi, Ben Freeman.

House Committee—Chairman, Harry Wood, Joe Benedict, Morris Kolber.

Social—Chairman, M. J. Ginsburg; Abe Hoffman, I. Fred, H. Berlowitz.

The chairmen of the various committees will meet Tuesday nights with the managing board to map out plans for future work.

Interesting talks were made by M. Raher of A. and M. college, Dr. I. Warsaw and L. Migel.

B. F. Freeman was elected program chairman to preside at the next meeting, which is to be held Sunday night, July 15.

MORROW STREET MEETING CLOSES AFTER THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL YET

The Morrow Street revival closed last night in a great service, in which there were conversions and reclamations. Both the services yesterday were a great success, and the evangelists leave today for other fields, Mr. Klein for Winsboro and Mr. Renshaw for Dallas, and then for his home at Detroit.

There have been something like 100 conversions during the revival and about fifty members added to Morrow Street church besides thirty or more to other churches.

The evangelist used Luke 19:10 for his text, "For the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." He said in part, "Many a man has became a grafter and sold out to the devil."

HALF HOLIDAY GIVEN BY SANGER BROTHERS TO START FRIDAY, 13

Announcement is made at the Sanger store to the effect that beginning Friday, July 13, they will follow out their usual custom of allowing their employes a half-holiday during the months of July and August. They will also close next Wednesday, July Fourth, all day, giving their employes a full holiday instead of half the day as was the policy several years ago.

The plan of half-holiday on Fridays during the warm summer months was inaugurated by Sanger Brothers five years ago and marked the initiative of a number of employers. Their action in the matter was a great boon to the different women's clubs of the city who planned a campaign for better and more favorable working conditions for the working class of people.

In taking this step, it in no way interferes with allowing their employes their vacation of one and two weeks duration with pay which is allowed according to term of service.

It is only natural that this movement should be inaugurated by the Sanger Brothers store as it has always been the policy of this big firm to step out and take the forward movement in all things pertaining to Waco's welfare as well as is shown in their liberality in which they in no small way express their appreciation of the loyalty of their employes which they enjoy.

As in the past the many patrons of the Sanger store have expressed their approval in a most emphatic manner by shopping accordingly and allowing three hundred and over employes of this big department store a half-holiday each week during the summer months.

AMUSEMENT IS PLANNED FOR THE SOLDIER CAMP

Plans for co-operating with Mr. Vail in providing amusement for the men in the army camp at Waco, when the men arrive, have been set on foot.

Mr. Vail visited Waco week before last and had this matter up. Since that time committees have been appointed, subject to approval by Mr. Vail, and the work of providing plenty of wholesome amusement and in as great variety as possible will be handled in due time and proper form.

The Penalty of Corns

No need now to waste time soaking your feet so often. Nor run the risk of paring.

Blue-jay plasters have ended millions of corns. This very night thousands of people will say goodbye to painful corns forever. Touchy corns are needless, even foolish.

Blue-jay brings instant relief. And in 48 hours the average corn is gone. Only a few stubborn ones require a second or third treatment.

A Blue-jay plaster, with its healing wax, is applied in a jiffy. No soreness, no inconvenience. The pain is not temporarily eased, as with paring. There is no danger, as with harsh liquids.

SANGER'S Greatest July Clearance Sale

OPENS THIS MORNING in Every Department of This Great Store

IN CONNECTION WITH THIS GREAT SALE HUNDREDS AND HUNDREDS OF ITEMS WERE PRINTED IN YESTERDAY'S PAPERS.

Every item presented a deep price reduction on seasonable merchandise of the best character. No glowing descriptions were given, for glowing descriptions are not necessary in the July Clearance Sale at Sanger's. We have been holding these sales annually for the past forty-four years. They are a part of our better system of merchandising. We clear our stocks and go to market to select new merchandise for the new season.

You cannot afford to overlook a single department in this store during this great sale. Glance again at the prices printed yesterday, note how low they are, and then bear in mind that we stand solidly back of our merchandise year in and year out, regardless of how low the price at which you may buy. It required many pages to present the many items for this sale and we made every inch of space count in telling you of the money saving advantages that this event offers.

Plan to come today, tomorrow and the next day after that, you'll save money on your present as well as future needs.

We suggest that you come early, because, during the next three or four days, thousands of people, not only from Waco, but all of Waco's Trade Territory will visit this store and take advantage of these low prices; they have been doing it for years, and they have never been disappointed yet, nor have they ever been deceived in a single item.

It Is the Greatest Merchandising Event Conducted in This State

It requires more newspaper space to present the price reductions than are utilized by any other store in Texas.

In keeping with the Sanger standard of Store Service at all times, there will be an ample force of salespeople, and extra delivery service.

Closed All Day Next Wednesday, July 4

The Sanger store will remain closed all day Wednesday in honor of July 4th, giving their employes a full day's holiday.

Plan to spend the day here. Lunch in our Luncheonette Department.

Our Policy, "The Public Be Pleased" Established in 1873

FATHER OF EMMA STALEY SAYS HER DEATH MUST CERTAINLY BE AVENGED

lost, but conscientiously trying to avoid divulging testimony. She said that her daughter had been very reticent with her about the maternity trouble, and that she had gradually wormed out the story.

"I thought then that nothing could be worse in the world. It nearly broke my heart but I did not know what sorrow was. When the poor child's body was brought to me in that horrible condition, I knew then that I should never be happy again. I eat, talk and laugh sometimes, but back in my mind is a picture of my poor girl. And she never gave me a moment's trouble before that. She was a good girl and when I wormed it all out of her I was not harsh with her but tried to understand it. I know how sorely good girls can be tempted so I said, 'Daughter, if you trust Willie, it will be best for you to go on where he wants you to, and maybe it will all come out right.' She had so much faith in him that we had some in him too. If he didn't do it, we want to know who did. We don't want to be unjust, but we can't help remembering that we have lost a daughter.

SISTER STANDS BY DEAD COMPANION TO THE LAST.

The twenty-four-year-old sister of the dead girl, Ella Staley, is very much as the dead girl must have looked. She is rather small and dark, with big brown eyes that show that she has suffered a great deal. She spoke of her sister with tears in her eyes:

"There never was a better sister in the world. No one ever said a word against her, and I know that no one suspected her of having done wrong. She was so quiet and sweet. She went with Willie Porter about two years but he didn't come to the house very much and mix with the family. He took her to picture shows, to the ice cream parlor and to church. He owned an automobile after he got the insurance at the death of his first wife. They took a good many rides together in that, usually with Julia Miller and some other young man. Emma did not seem to be down-hearted before she told us, and we guessed at most of it before she did tell us. We did not censure her as she had always been such a good girl. She stuck up for him and would not say anything against him"

Julia Miller, a little blonde, who said that she weighed exactly what Emma weighed, 109 pounds, told me that she was the dearest friend of the deceased. She told of many girlish confidences about the prisoner, but had not admitted their intimacy until Saturday night before the disappearance on Monday night. Emma, according to Julia, had asked her to spend the night with her Sunday so that she could tell her the full particulars. But owing to the distance between the two farms, Julia did not go, and therefore failed to get the story.

CHUM SAYS EMMA SWEETEST GIRL SHE KNEW.

"Emma was the sweetest girl I ever knew. She wasn't like me at all. She was quiet and modest and not a bit forward. She wasn't very popular with the boys, and only had one other sweetheart, a Harrison boy, who began going with her too late to have had anything to do with her condition. She told me that it was Willie Porter."

When I asked her how Emma had taken Porter's marriage, she said:

"Se didn't seem to care a bit. She just tossed her head and said, 'I don't care,' and said it like she meant it. She didn't talk to me like she would commit suicide at all. She never mentioned it and I believe she would have told me. We had been chums ever since we were little girls. Emma wasn't what you would call pretty, but everybody liked her and I know that Willie Porter was crazy about her for a long time.

"I introduced Lucille Miller, my cousin, to him, not dreaming that it would cause Emma trouble. He got interested in Lucille right away and married her about three weeks later. He told me that he was going to marry a Fort Worth girl and then we heard a few days later that he had married Lucille."

PORTER SITS CALMLY THROUGH FIRST TESTIMONY.

In the courtroom I sat opposite the prisoner, but did not know who it was that I was facing. He was a rather slight, fair complexioned man, young, and apparently a man who has never seen serious trouble. He sat quite calmly through the trivial testimony, sometimes turning around for a word with his cousin who sat beside him. His large round eyes are of dark blue and of a serenity that is surprising. A casual observer would mentally classify him as "a nice young man" and not pay any more attention to him. He did not seem to show any of the strain under which he must have been passing.

Surrounded by members of the family in an upstairs room, the young bride of only eight months, sits awaiting the outcome of the trial. Her eyes and the eyes of the other women in the room were rimmed red from tears, but they were calm. At first they would have nothing to say to me, and when I explained my neutrality, the young wife made room for me beside her, and told me part of the sad story of her marriage.

PORTER'S WIFE RELATES STORY OF HER MARRIAGE.

"I had known Willie six or seven months," she answered my question timidly, her blue eyes and softly curling hair making her look almost childish—she is only seventeen. "We were married the 22 of November. To my certain knowledge, he never went with Emma Staley a time after we became engaged. I did not know that he had been intimate with her and had never known Emma Staley, except as I saw her in passing."

The bride is a tall, slim, girlish looking woman, and is bearing her trouble well. She expressed vehemently her belief in his innocence and the belief that God would give her justice.

The mother told of a long residence and good standing in the community, saying that everybody knew that her son bore a good name.

W. K. McGlaun, who lives at Oscar, a rural route of Temple, spoke with tears in his eyes of little Emma Staley, as he called her and whom he had known since her birth.

"She was one of the best little kids in the world. I used to take her candy when she was little and I thought as much of her as a sister. I would as soon believe she was a bad women as believe it of my mother. I think that she was basely betrayed."
